

Claudia Martínez Garay – Large Print Artwork Labels

1

AM 1955 + 19 A-B

British Museum

Found in Americas collections apparently unnumbered and unregistered. Formally registered March 2013.

Acquisition details unknown, but known to have been in collection by 1955.

2

AM 7419

British Museum

Curator's comments

See BEP archive/Christy Correspondence (AOA -copy)

Letter from Josiah Harris, 14 September 1871, donating a collection from the Macabi Is. made by his late son Josiah David Harris Harris attaches extracts from his son's letters. The extracts refer to the discovery of many “curiosities” including stone and wooden items but this pottery vessel is not mentioned.

3

AM 1907 0319 65

British Museum

Excavated/Findspot: Pacasmayo Valley

Found/Acquired: La Libertad (Peru) (?)

Found/Acquired: Ancash (?)

Found/Acquired: Lambayeque (department) (?)

4

AM 1947 10 13

British Museum

cultures/periods: Inca

Excavated/Findspot: Peru (?)

Register addition "Moche".

5 & 6

AM 7422

British Museum

“These extraordinary wooden sculptures, depicting officers, mythical beings and naked prisoners, were found off the coast of Moche territory on the Macabi Islands, along with other objects such as ceramics, textiles and shells. They were discovered during the late 19th century buried in layers of guano (bird excrement) when it began to be widely exported as fertiliser.” in Pardo and Cooper 2021 / Peru: A Journey In Time (p. 133)

7

A UC 90

National Museums Scotland

Carved hollow wooden figure of a naked prisoner sitting cross-legged with his arms behind his back and a rope about his neck: South America, Peru, Macabi Island, Moche, 1 - 750 AD

8

AM 1946 11

British Museum

figurine; container; conopa

Register addition “ink-pot”

Register addition “Modern”

Register addition “Inca”

“This may be a modern souvenir ink pot, the ‘well’ differs from the old ones in having straight sides”. HJB

9

AM 1927 1007 6

British Museum

figurine; offering

gold

10

AM 1947 10 6

British Museum

Pottery stirrup vessel in the form of a skeleton and a woman embracing. The skeleton is gripping the woman's bottom lip, while the woman is holding the skeleton's penis.

Probably Mochica, Peru.

11

AM 1909 1207 8

British Museum

Curator's comments

Jones 1990

Moche-style vessels from Peru

“Since quite early in the nineteenth century the manufacture of objects purporting to be of pre-Hispanic date - including the so-called 'portrait' vessels, which perhaps represent heroes or rulers of ancient Peru - has been common in Peru. In recent times the use of genuinely ancient pottery vessels, remodelled and painted to turn them into more elaborate specimens, has caused considerable confusion: thermoluminescence dating often appear to support the authenticity of the piece. However, in the nineteenth century more common types of forgery depended rather upon the use of original pre-Hispanic moulds which are often found in the graves of potters. From these it was possible for the forgers to produce numbers of pottery vessels in perfect style.

In many early examples little attempt was made to reproduce either the clay or surface finish correctly. Rather, the surface was 'aged' by making it appear black and dirty, and by adding to it fragments of genuine pre-Hispanic textile, abundantly available from mummy-wrappings preserved by the dry climate of coastal Peru. Since pottery vessels are equally abundant in these graves, it is perhaps puzzling that they should have been forged. However, genuine examples are often broken and require considerable restoration, which then has to be concealed. Demand for Moche pottery vessels remains high, and recent forgeries are of great sophistication.”

12

AM 1949 12 2 A

British Museum

Curator's comments

The head (with whistle mechanism) was removed in 1/1997 by Conservation Dpt. as not belonging to the vase.

13

AM 1949 12 2 B

British Museum

Curator's comments

Head removed from vase by Conservation Department, 1/1997, as not belonging (though Moche)

14

AM 5974

British Museum

Excavated/Findspot: Peru

15

AM 1909 1218 243

British Museum

Vase (in form of man with animal made of pottery. The human figure is sat cross-legged with hands together looking upwards. On their back is a hybrid animal with feline traits such as muzzle and fangs, but human elements in the form of curled hair, ears decorated with ear spools and human hands.

Cultures/periods

Moche

Chimu

16

AM 1909 1218 48

British Museum

Stirrup spout bottle in the form of a human hand, painted with dark brown on a cream slip background.

17

AM 1882 1014 10

British Museum

Jar with flat pedestal base and flaring snout. Vessel represents the head of a camelid - a guanaco? with a halter across muzzle and around the head.

Cultures/periods

Chimu

Inca (?related?)

Production date

900-1430 (?) (?)

1470-1660 (?) (?)

18

AM 1907 0319 585

British Museum

Excavated/Findspot: Pacasmayo Valley

Found/Acquired: La Libertad (Peru) (?)

Found/Acquired: Ancash (?)

Found/Acquired: Lambayeque (department) (?)

19

AM 1858 0403 22

British Museum

Vase, stirrup-spout vessel (female with child-shaped) made of pottery.

20

AM 1858 0403 3

British Museum

Stirrup-spouted vessel (head-shaped) made of pottery.

21

AM 1947 10 3

British Museum

Pottery vessel in the form of a bird (vulture or condor?).

Moche (Phase I (?))

22

AM1933 0511 14

British Museum

St-sp vessel (gourd-shaped) made of pottery. Top section of gourd coloured cream, the rest of the vessel dark brown

Cultures/periods

Chimu (?)

Moche (?)

23

1945.10.120

Pitt Rivers Museum, University of Oxford

Latin America and the Caribbean » South America » Peru

(uncertain)

Field collector Ronald Hawksby Thomas (uncertain)

PRM source Ronald Hawksby Thomas (uncertain)

Donated: Unknown date

24

1841.41.8

Pitt Rivers Museum, University of Oxford

Latin America and the Caribbean > South America >

Peru

Unknown

Maker: Unknown Maker

Field collector: Unknown Collector

PRM source: Augustus Henry Lane Fox Pitt Rivers founding collection

25

1985.49.135

Pitt Rivers Museum, University of Oxford

Latin America and the Caribbean » South America » Peru

Unknown

Field Collector: Unknown Collector

PRM source: Welcome Institute

26

1949.1.87

Pitt Rivers Museum, University of Oxford

Date made: Before 1949

Archaeological period: Chimú

Date collected: By 1949

Donated: 1949

27

2005.91.1.1

Pitt Rivers Museum, University of Oxford

Part of a pottery vessel in form of a human head.

Latin America and the Caribbean > South America >

Peru Chimbote Ferroc Bay

Field collector Henry Ogg Forbes (uncertain)

PRM source Henry Ogg Forbes (uncertain)

Date collected: 1912? (uncertain)

Donated: 1921, uncertain

28, 29, 36, 37 & 38

Am1954.06.165

British Museum

Sherd; made of pottery; section of side of vessel painted with geometric designs.

Cultures/periods: Tiahuanaco

Excavated/Findspot: Peru

30, 31, 32 & 35

Am1954,05.148

British Museum

Sherd; made of pottery;

Curator's comments:

Register addition "Peru".

Register addition "Tiahuanaco".

33 & 34

Am1954,05.167

British Museum

Sherd; made of pottery; in the form of human face.

Cultures/periods: Tiahuanaco

Excavated/Findspot: Peru