Face each other and get ready for the Word Association Game.

Remember we are not speaking out loud but using our mouths to form the shapes of the words. Start with one of the Allison Katz words and then get your partner to say the first thing that comes to their mind.

For example, if you say the word "Bird" and your partner might say the word "Egg". Then, the next person should say the first word which comes to their mind, for example "Beans", "Toast".

Beans

Toast

Egg

To add more to the challenge, create a frame around your mouth with your hands while sounding out different words.

You can also download our illustrated frame, print and cut out and use these to hold around your mouth. Or you can design your own or even think about different objects you might use to create a frame?

A rolled-up magazine, a cardboard tube or even a cardboard box! Something that has a hole all the way through.
